"GARRULOUS LITTLE PETREL"

Extracts From Book Read In Laski Libel Suit

All This --- And Ransom, Too?

Latest to receive the unwelcome attention of intimidation gangs are those about to become bridegrooms who are of fairly well-to-do families. Letters addressed to them warn that unless the sum asked for—generally from $1,000 to $2,000—is paid at a designated rendezvous, the recipients "may never be able to enjoy the marital bliss you look forward to."

"Since you can afford to spend so lavishly on this auspicious occasion we are sure you will not grudge the little that we ask of you," reads the persuasive portion of the missive.

This class of recipients are mostly of the nervous sort and do not like anything untoward to mar an auspicious occasion; far less endanger lives, so very few, if any at all, report to the Police.

The "China Mail" understands on most reliable authority that at least one such groom-to-be who had been asked for $2,000 after two sleepless nights, eventually paid up and is now sleeping soundly in the assurance that the wedding will come off without incident.

Storm In Teacup, Says Defence

London, Nov. 30.
Extracts from a book describing Mr. Harold Laski, Professor of Political Science at London University and last year's Chairman of the Labour Party, as the "garrulous little petrel of Socialist politics," wearing a "tight-fitting hip-slinky overcoat of a sort that dance band leaders wear," were read at the fourth day of the hearing of the libel action Professor Laski is bringing in the High Court.

Mr. Laski is seeking damages from the Newark Advertising Company, Limited, publishers of the Newark Advertiser, and from the paper's editor, Mr. Cyril Paribby, for reporting that he implied to questioners during the general election campaign last year that he advocated revolution by violence.

The questioner to whom he was reported to have used the alleged words, Mr. Wentworth Day, former editor of the society and sporting weekly, The Field, was cross-examined today by Mr. G. O. Slade, for Mr. Laski, who read extracts from the book Harvest Adventure, which Mr. Day said he was about to publish.

Mr. Slade read this passage from the book: "Who should descend upon the English peace of Newark but Professor Laski, that urban-minded and garrulous little petrel of Socialist politics. He swooped upon Newark to the aid of the Air Vice-Marshal (Air Vice-Marshal Champion de Crespigny, Labour candidate, at whose meeting Mr. Laski spoke.)"

"He was evidently a man with a disturbed mind. He appeared on a sort of French Revolution cart fitted with a microphone instead of a guillotine. He was dressed in a tight-fitting hip-slinky overcoat of the sort that dance band leaders wear. For the better part of an hour he sprayed us with an oleaginous stream of rhetorical argument full of silly half-truths."

From time to time during reading of these extracts, Mr. Slade asked Mr. Day: "That was intended to be disparaging? Was that true?" Mr. Day replied that his remarks were not intended to be disparaging, but were true or purely descriptive.

Theft Of Important Documents

Hamburg, Nov. 29.
Important Danish State papers stolen from a Danish military mission car on Wednesday were found today hidden under leaves near the Hamburg Museum.

Thirteen youths between the ages of 12 and 18 have been arrested.

Meanwhile, a Reuter report from Herford states that an arrest was made today in connection with the theft of the $250,000 Rembrandt picture from Cologne Museum yesterday, according to the Public Safety authorities tonight.

It was not stated who the man was or whether he was British or German.

The picture had just been brought from the United States for exhibition with other works in Cologne Museum. It was painted in 1650 and Rembrandt's son is said to have been the model for it.—Reuter.

ROYAL TOUR

London, Nov. 30.
The Royal family will sail on Feb. 1 on the long-planned goodwill tour of South Africa, Buckingham Palace announced yesterday.

The voyage will be on board HMS Vanguard. A specially built luxury train will carry them through the Dominion on the two months' visit.—Associated Press.

Democrats Stir Up Trouble

Washington, Nov. 29.
The Democratic party-line vote, rejecting the Senate committee investigation of American military Governments, stirred up an angry storm with the Republicans contending that the administration must be hiding "something wrong."

Four Republicans on the Senate War Investigation committee—once-headed by President Truman—asserted also the Administration must be trying to destroy public confidence in the committee for fear that it may be "a valuable asset to Congress after January 3," when the Republicans take control of it.

In New York, Senator Connally, Democrat (Texas) member of the committee, said he considered the proposed investigation "outside the jurisdiction" of the group and "interference with foreign affairs."

Republicans Brewster (Maine) and Fergusson (Michigan) and Knowland (California) issued a statement after the Democratic majority cancelled the long-projected inquiry in the Military Governments in Germany and Austria.

Before the committee cancelled the trip, it was generally known around the capital that both the War and State departments had made vigorous objections to investigation of the occupied zones at this time.—Associated Press.

EXPLOSION AT POMEY

Portsmouth, Nov. 29.
Two members of the crew of a landing craft refitted here were killed today as the result of an explosion on board.

Five other crewmen and seven dockyard employees working aboard were injured.—Reuter.

KING TO BROADCAST

London, Nov. 29.
King George will broadcast a message to Britain and the Empire on Christmas Day. It was officially announced today.

The broadcast will be made from the King's Sandringham home in Norfolk, and will probably take place at 3 p.m.—Reuter.

Mosquito Explodes

London, Nov. 29.
Two Royal Air Force men were killed tonight when their Mosquito plane exploded in mid-air over the Thames at Whitechurch, Oxfordshire.

The plane was flying low towards its aerodrome at Benson when it went into a spiral dive and blew up.

At Croydon a Dragon Rapide hospital plane on delivery flight to the Danish Red Cross in Copenhagen was "damaged" today.

The pilot had landed to clear the customs and the plane was parked with the brakes on but with no blocks under the wheels. A sudden gust of wind blew it backwards into some railings, damaging the tail and a wing. Nobody was in the plane at the time.—Reuter.

Home Office To Keep Powers

London, Nov. 29.
The Government today resisted pressure from some members of Parliament to allow legislation giving the Home Office power to check immigration into Britain to lapse.

During the debate on a measure to prolong the duration of several expiring bills, which was passed, Mr. H. S. Oliver, Under-Secretary to the Home Office, said there were many "undesirable" people in Europe today who would gladly take the opportunity of coming to Britain.

To members who suggested that immigration might help out British manpower, Mr. Oliver said the Home Office would allow the immigration of a certain number of workers on the advice of the Ministry of Labour.

A Labour member, Mr. H. Crossman, who led the recent "revolt" among the Labour party members critical of foreign policy, asked that immigration restrictions should not be renewed without consideration of the 1946 position with the shortage of manpower in Britain and 1,000,000 persons at large in Europe without homes.

Britain's immigration policy should be "related" to the displaced persons problem which, Crossman said, was connected with questions of British national security.—Reuter.

Renault Strike Settled

Paris, Nov. 29.
The dispute in the Renault car factory at Le Mans in central France has been settled, a communiqué issued by the National Administration of the Renault factories announced tonight.

Reports had circulated that several thousand workers in the factory had seized control of the plant following the management's decision to close down the factory.

The action was said to have been due to the workers' threat of a strike.—Reuter.

Athens, Nov. 29.
Press military dispatches said today that "foreign volunteers" were among the rebel forces killed by Government troops clearing the guerrilla strong points near Mount Crammos. No nationality of the "volunteers" was disclosed.—Reuter.

Liquor Trade To Absorb Duty

Generously cooperating with the Government, the Trade has agreed to absorb practically all of the new duties on liquor, said a Government spokesman yesterday.

He disclosed that, following negotiations, importers and retailers have agreed to keep the retail price of whiskey at the present unofficially agreed-upon "ceiling" of $15 per bottle, and also not to increase the retail price of the more expensive brands of gin above the existing unofficial "ceiling" of $15 a bottle.

For the cheaper brands of gin, upon which at the moment the price margin is very small, the Trade has agreed to absorb $2 of the increased duty of $2.67 a bottle.

The spokesman explained that some of the cheaper brands of gin were now retailing at such a small margin that if they absorbed the whole of the new duties they would be selling at a loss.

However, he assured that the Trade had agreed it would absorb as large a part of the new duties as possible on these brands.

So far as quality brandies and all brands of champagne were concerned, these will remain at the previous retail price of $30.00.

For cheaper brands and for still wines and liqueurs, the Trade will absorb one-quarter of the increased duty, (i.e. 33 cents for still wines and between 58 and 67 cents for liqueurs), wherever present margins permit.

No Increase In Smokes
Regarding beer and tobacco, the spokesman stated that the present controlled prices of these commodities would not be increased.

He said that this meant the controlled prices of beer and tobacco already quoted would remain in force and it is illegal for any retailer to sell them above these prices.

He also emphasised there was no necessity for cigarettes and tobacco to be held back from the public now that the position had been fully clarified.

Decisions regarding the absorption of the new increased liquor duties were finalised after conferences between representatives of the Government and the Trade.

Hong Kong Residents Awarded

Four Hong Kong residents have been rewarded for war service by the King, according to an announcement in the London Gazette.

Major E. Teasdale, of the Hong Kong Government, has been awarded the M.C., Capt. Osler Thomas the M.B.E. and Capt. A. Hunt and S. Gillingham mentioned in despatches.

All four served in the British Army Aid Group.

Coal Administrator As Witness Against Lewis

Washington, Nov. 30.
The contempt trial of John I. Lewis was adjourned until Monday after the court denied Lewis' motion for dismissal and the Federal Coal Mines Administrator had testified that Lewis cancelled his soft coal contract without ever having made a direct request for changes in wages or working conditions.

Coal Administrator Collison made this statement after Lewis pleaded innocent through his lawyers to the contempt charge.

"At no time was a direct request made upon me relative to a change in wages, hours and working conditions," Collison testified.

This was true, he said, even though four meetings with the United Mine Workers were held beginning Nov. 1 in which Collison said he was fully empowered to negotiate.

Government officials are scheduled to continue testimony against Lewis when the trial resumes Monday.

SS. Men On Trial

Stuttgart, Nov. 29.
Eleven Germans were today committed for trial without bail by the United States Military Government court here today on charges of being concerned in bombing attacks on the Military Police Headquarters here and the de-Nazification courts at Backnang and Esslingen in October.

They were also charged with being in illegal possession of arms. The charges carry the death penalty.

The chief accused was Siegfried Kabus, former member of the S.S. Although the investigations have not yet been completed, Military Government officers legations in Europe.—Reuter.

NEHRU CHANGE OF MIND?

New Delhi, Nov. 30.
A source "close" to Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru said that the All India Congress leader has changed his mind and that he and the Sikh Defence Minister, Sardar Baldev Singh, will attend the British Cabinet discussions in London along with the Muslim League representatives.—Associated Press.

Big Increase In Soviet Harvest

Moscow, Nov. 29.
Steps taken recently by the Soviet Government and the Communist party towards improving agriculture, especially in collective farms, and widespread criticism of violations, have caused a tremendous increase in the wheat harvest and the sowing of new winter wheat.

Reports from all over the nation which have come in by Tass; special reports to the big Moscow newspapers; local newspapers; and radio and telephone have given Associated Press a picture of tremendous activity from one end of the land to the other to harvest the precious wheat, and to get the new wheat into the earth.

There has been a drought in some places and individual collective farms and officials have been criticised, but the overall situation is good. It seems good enough to discount all talk abroad of "terrible days" ahead for the Soviet people. Nothing like this seems apparent from reports from some grain areas of the USSR.

The story is not one of complete brightness, of course, for in certain areas the harvest is still behind and criticism continues. But this is a broad land and many of the reports show tremendous energy and effort to comply with the pledges and plans.

A dispatch from Omsk in Siberia said the district had completed its harvest. In the Ust-Ilimsky area the collective exceeded their set quota by 20,000 poods, turning in 285,000 poods. (A pood is equal to 36.11 American pounds.)

Doubly Important
From the Gurev district at the head of the Caspian sea came a report that it had completed its collection. This is doubly important, for it is in the vast oil region, where thousands of workers

A dispatch from Alma Ata, capital of Kazakhstan, said the harvest is in. A message from the Kishizla collectives said the collections were completed with the individual farms.

A dispatch from the Kurgan region east of Chelyabinsk in Siberia said deliveries are still bad, adding that 325,000 hectares (803,000 acres) remain unthreshed.

The Gorki region organization was criticized and reports from the Shentalinsk and Kuibyshev regions are not good.

Sentenced
All newspapers carried a story from the Prosecutor's office relating sentences from two to 10 years handed out to persons convicted of "plundering grain."

"The general prosecutor," the newspaper said, "gave instruction to increase the struggle against wasting grain and call to responsibility all those who are guilty."—Associated Press.

JAPAN TO BE STRIPPED

Washington, Nov. 29.
Japan would be entirely stripped of her aluminum and magnesium industries and would have her iron and steel output limited to 2,750,000 tons a year under a plan evolved by the United States Reparations Commission, Mr. Edwin C. Pauley, disclosed by authoritative quarters here tonight.

It is understood that Britain is in broad agreement with the plan, but it is being held up at present by Russia's refusal to approve Allied reparations policy for the Far East.—Reuter.

BRITISH CULTURE

After the end of the war the Government quickly and wisely decided to revive and extend the work abroad of the British Council, and to provide it with funds ample for its activities. The report for the year just issued fully justifies the course then taken. Under the guidance of its new chairman, Gen. Sir Ronald Adam, the Council has spread the "educational and cultural work" to which it is restricted to most of the countries of Europe, to the Middle East, Latin America and China. A beginning has been made in the Dominions, in India the Colonies and mandated territories. Almost without exception the effort of the Council "to stimulate interest in the British way of life" has met with a well come embracing because the resources at the disposal of the organization were unequal to the demands made upon them.

What the Council is engaged in through the S2 British Institutes which it runs, and the more numerous cultural societies abroad with which it is linked, is the spread of the knowledge of English literature, of British art, drama, music, science and engineering. There could be no better way of promoting international understanding. In the course of the year the Council has spent rather more than the £3,500,000 that the Government provides as a grant-in-aid. Extension of its work is plainly limited by monetary considerations, and by the difficulty of enrolling a competent staff of workers. While the Council draws much of its material from the Central Office of Information it operates in a field of its own, and must continue to do so if its educational value is to be preserved.

RUMANIA POLLS

Inevitably as a result of the elections in Rumania the Soviet-dominated Government bloc has been established in power. No other result could be anticipated from the conditions that were imposed upon the popular choice. If ever there was a foregone conclusion, this was one. To the last moment Dr. Tatarescu, the Foreign Minister, was assuring the world, in his reply to the American protest, that "democratic principles... are a constant guide to the actions" of the Rumanian Government. Those principles were illustrated in a Press censorship during the contest, in the breaking up of the meetings of the opposition parties, in the denial of broadcasting facilities and the manipulation of the electoral machinery. No feature of the contest with which the American and British Governments expressed their dissatisfaction was modified. Voters went to polling booths cordoned off by soldiers with fixed bayonets. If these were the surroundings of a free election they were not readily recognisable as such. The election provides an apt comment upon the principles at stake. Are the British and American Governments to stand aloof when in an ex-enemy country the freedoms for which the war was fought are set at naught? When the Rumanian Government reads that there is "interference in Rumania's domestic affairs" the answer is that the Government would not have been recognised had it not pledged itself to free and unfettered elections. The right to be watchful over events derives from that fact, and not from any agreement between the three great Powers. Diplomatic pressure may, as in this case, prove of small avail, for reasons that are clear enough. There still remains the obligation on the democratic peoples not to allow the case for democracy to go anywhere by default.

TRADE MISSION LEAVES

Shanghai, Nov. 29.
 Sir Leslie Boyce and the other members of the British Trade Mission, left Shanghai for Formosa today on the last stage of their Far East tour after completing an extensive visit to north and central China and to Manchuria. The mission is to spend about four days in Formosa, then travel to Canton for a similar stay and finally leave for Hong Kong for home. —Reuter.

How Christmas Comes To The A. T. S.

When the ATS began to go about with mistletoe in their hair and the light of battle in their eyes you knew that Christmas was coming to the 999th Heavy (Mixed) Anti-Aircraft Battery, Royal Artillery.

There was already a "lift" in the air because the guns had fired a couple of days before, and even though no noticeable distress had been caused to the Luftwaffe the fact of firing raised everybody's spirits. The Quartermaster was especially pleased, as he was now able to attribute the recent breakage of three lavatory pans to gun blast and thus avoid levying a charge for barrack-room damages. People with houses adjoining the gunsite were less pleased, but they plugged up their broken windows with cardboard and tried to pretend that it was all in a good cause.

Quite a number of characters changed for the better, as Christmas approached. For once the RSM visited the site on a purely goodwill mission instead of for the purpose of lighting a fire in a remote corner and timing the arrival of the fire platoon.

Private Jean Smith and Corporal Sally Tubby, who in the ordinary way cultivated exclusively the society of American fliers, were good enough to remain in the camp on their evening off and join in a sing-song in the Naafi.

Live And Let Live

Lieutenant Rogers, who was wont to make unexpected descents on the Information Room in the evenings, under the impression that it was being used for other purposes, than acquiring information, decided to live and let live (for a couple of days anyway).

The Junior Commander ATS had got over her huff. She had selected her six best-looking ATS for a special parade, only to see them rejected by the Colonel, who had other standards of puckeriness. He had chosen just the ones you would expect a man to choose. Now, however, the Junior Commander had decided she must live it down, and was ordering the Christmas dinner with imagination and efficiency.

Yes, there was an improvement all round. It even seemed that the Major was going to abandon to the extent of allowing the male sergeants to take tea to the ATS on Christmas morning. But the Major knew that a man's footsteps over the threshold of an ATS hut was liable to lead to a question in the House of Commons, and he was taking no chances. He said that in any case revelling in an ATS barrack-room was a scene from which Hogarth might have shrunk. Nobody knew how he came to possess this knowledge.

Cup Of Tea

Christmas morning saw officers and sergeants of both sexes cuttily carrying buckets of tea into the appropriate barrack-rooms, waking up sleepers who would just as soon have stayed asleep. Everyone tried to be hearty, though there were quite a few who only cursed tradition. Then the officers and sergeants staggered back to bed.

The only parade that morning was for singing carols. Even Gunter Brown, a notorious disenter, attended. The local Minister, called in for the occasion, was in a jovial mood. "Think of a number," he would say to the congregation, in the manner of a conjuror addressing his audience. "Someone would call 'Five,' so they would sing 'Carol Number Five.' And so on. It was all very unorthodox. For once the final 'Amens' was not immediately followed by the cry 'Three ranks in the roadway!' It was all very refreshing.

Dinner was the big event. The dining hall was so garlanded and beflagged that you could not read the exhortations to save bread, and to come with clean hands. There was a special holly wreath on the piece of Heinkel which the battery had winged a year before. At one end of the hall were three barrels of beer, presented by the officers, who also had the privilege of serving it. Nobody refused beer, not even the youngest and dearest flak maiden.

No Hardship

There was mistletoe hung at strategic points around the hall, and this delayed the serving of the meal somewhat. Captain Richards was the principal victim. They always pounced on him when he had both hands full. His handkerchief, at the end, showed more shades of lipstick than you could find on a colour mark by Elizabeth Arden. To wash a wagger, Gunter Tomkins, teased the Junior Commander, which was no hardship. When the Major kissed the Junior

Commander there was loud applause, against the background of which a female voice was heard expressing the belief that it probably wasn't the first time. Lieutenant Smithson, a newcomer to "mixed," said that this stimulating blend of Bacchus and Venus was probably as near as he would ever get to the atmosphere of a Roman orgy.

Nuts were served to round off the meal. This was a mistake, as nuts are too useful as ammunition. The beer barrels were by now empty. Nobody felt much like attending the football match, least of all the players, so it was just as well that visiting team failed to turn up. Everybody had a lazy afternoon under the blankets—except the officers and sergeants, who had to wash up, serve the mess staffs, wash up again, eat their own dinner and then wash up for the third time.

Hysterics

There was a dance in the evening, preceded by amateur theatricals, full of libellous innuendo. Lieutenant Rogers was depicted lecturing on the British Way and Purpose to a choir of angels. There was a hysterical scene in a haunted barrack-room, the girl occupants of which withstood every kind of blood-curdling apparition but panicked at the end when one of them saw a mouse. And, of course, Sergeant Richmond gave his celebrated mime of an ATS getting undressed and into bed. L/Cpl Jane White, straight from "Junkies," sang "I'll walk beside you" and received much sympathetic applause. Then Sergeant Alice Grant gave the hula-hula dance which, her jealous colleagues averred, was the cause of her rapid promotion at training centre.

Probably the reason why the ATS enjoyed the dance so much was that the ATS officers forbore to enquire why half of them were wearing slacks instead of Service dress, and why their hair in many cases was no longer two inches above the collar. Private Polly Jackson expected any moment to be asked, "Jackson, have you been using scent?" But her crime, if noticed (and it was abundantly noticeable) went unpunished.

The BSM, who was compering, laid on a kiss waltz, saying: "The music will stop, the lights will go out for five seconds, and the gentleman will do what is expected of them." It happened that Lieutenant Rogers was dancing with Gunter Walter's fiancée, but there wasn't much that Gunter Walter could do about it. (He was a jealous fellow, and didn't like other NCOs' urging his fiancée, who was a cookhouse orderly, to get a move on.) It also happened that Private Joan Jenkins was dancing with Captain Richards, who was the only person in the camp who didn't know that Private Joan had a "crush" on him. After that romantic interlude there were action songs, including the one which finished:

"The Authority on Authorities"

THIRD TRICK CRUCIAL

A hand without any side entries contains a five-card suit headed by the ace. The contract is No. Trump, and your hope is to set up small cards of that suit and get tricks with them. Regardless of whether you hold that suit as a defender, or whether you are declarer and it is in your own hand, one fact should be uppermost in your mind. It is this—the trick is generally the crucial one. Usually you should hold up the ace until the third round of the suit, no matter what happens on the first two rounds.

"The moon was shining brightly. 'Twas a night that would banish all sin. For the bells were ringing the Old Year Out, And the New Year in."

Refreshing Sights
 The idea, of course, was to make exaggerated gestures appropriate to each line. It was felt that the Major's interpretation of "sin" was as daring as anybody's. To see the battery making a fool of itself collectively was a refreshing sight.

Soon after this the shutter descended on the beer bar and the dance began to die. Three Free French sailors had been invited to the dance. They had not lacked partners, though one or two of the girls had found the Provençal technique a bit swift. Lieutenant Rogers, who always took the job of Orderly Officer seriously, thought he would see them safely off the site. It took him twenty minutes, and in the end he had to call out reinforcements.

In the sergeants' mess Christmas night was celebrated longer than anywhere else. Jenks, the batman, swore next day that when organising an early cup of tea from the cookhouse he saw the male sergeants relieving their bedding from the static water tank. Apparently they had had a very good party indeed.

Strange Cargo For China

London, Nov. 29.

The assertion that many goods intended by UNRRA for the Chinese never reached them, and that some of the goods were unsuitable, was made in the House of Commons today by the Labour Member, Lieut. Colonel Rees Williams, who recently visited the East.

He also said there were persistent stories of corruption which led to goods passing into the black market, and there was a feeling that some of the goods were being used for carrying on the war.

Regarding unsuitable goods, Colonel Rees Williams said that there was a strong suspicion that some American business firms dumped on UNRRA some of the goods for which they no longer found a market in the United States. For instance, the Chinese were surprised to find a consignment of women's body belts.

However much relief and rehabilitation these might have given to the ladies of New York, he said, they were not really the kind of relief supplies to send to China.

Mr. Hector McNeill, Minister of State, replying to the discussion of what was to happen to Europe when UNRRA ceased to function, said that if Colonel Rees Williams would give him further particulars of the allegations made about the body belts, he would have inquiries made.—Reuter.

British Reds Holding Empire Conference

London, Nov. 30.

India, Palestine and British colonial policy will be discussed at the conference here of twelve Communist parties of the British Empire, called by the British Communist Party for Feb. 26. It will last until March.

The opening speech on "The Communist parties of the Empire had to fight for peace and democracy," will probably be made by Rajani Palme Dutt, son of an Indian father, and the British Communist Party Executive's expert on Empire matters.

The eleven overseas Communist parties so far invited are the Communist parties of India, South Africa, Northern Ireland, Australia, New Zealand, Burma, Ceylon, Malaya and Palestine, and the AKEO movement of Cyprus and the "Labour Progressives of Canada." Affirmative replies have already been received from all except New Zealand.

The conference will follow closely on the next Congress of the Communist Party of Great Britain, to which resolutions on policy will be submitted. As some fraternal delegates from parties are expected at the British Party's Congress, London may become the rendezvous of most of the Communist parties of the world.

The preliminary agenda includes, apart from the opening debate on the fight for peace and democracy, four more points.

One point will deal with the "working class and peasant movements in the Empire" and will give an opportunity for reports from various parties.

Colonial Regimes
 There will be separate discussions on India, the British colonial system, Palestine and the Middle East.

In an article published in the British Communist information sheet "World News and Views," Mr. Harry Pollitt, Secretary-General of the British Communist Party, says that the con-

SPORTS SECTION AUSTRALIA SCORES 595 FOR FIVE

Brisbane, Nov. 30.
 Although Don Bradman was allowed to add only 25 runs to his score in the second day's play of the six days' opening Test cricket match here today, Australia continued to occupy the wicket and at close of play they lost only half of their wickets with 595 runs on the board. In only five other innings of Test match history have Australia done better and the total is already the best ever made by either England or Australia at Brisbane. Lindsay Hassett, who captained the Australian service in England last year, hit his first century in Test cricket but it was somewhat laboured taking six and a half hours.

The bowlers, try as they could, never mastered the batsmen. Though always bowling well, and Colin McCool, who was really chosen for his bowling, may attain the coveted distinction of scoring a century in his first Test appearance.

He and Ian Johnson, another bowler, have already added 130 for the sixth wicket without being parted, for they flogged the tired bowling after Miller had left, following the brilliant 79 he made at 465.

McCool will return to the crease on Monday needing only eight for his hundred which, if he reaches it, may remind him that he might have been out after opening his score. Gibb, behind the wicket, missed the chance of catching him off Bedser.

This was not the only missed catch. Hammond failed with one and Bedser another, in both cases, of Hassett, but as the latter left shortly afterwards, caught by Yardley those errors were not very expensive.

Apart from those chances, England never faltered in the fielding and throughout a lone day of blazing heat, the ground fielding was excellent with Washbrook, Yardley and Ikin outstanding.

The full score-board to date is: Sidney Barnes, c Bedser, b Wright, 31; Arthur Morris, c Hammond, b Bedser, 2; Don Bradman, c Edrich, b Bedser, 187; Lindsay Hassett, c Yardley, b Bedser, 128; Keith Miller, lbw, b Wright, 92; Colin McCool, not out, 47; Ian Johnson, not out, 26; Extras, 3.

Lottery!

Colombo, Nov. 30.
 Ceylon police were today seeking for a gang believed to have organized a lottery on the Test match.

Tickets have been sold openly in the streets of Colombo, it was reported today, although lotteries and raffles are subject to police permission.

Meanwhile, a Reuter report from Queensland reports that officials at Brisbane stated today's receipts have beaten the city's record, exceeding the $3,562 taken at the December 1936 game, although the crowd today was about 7,000 short of the gate on that occasion.—Reuter.

German Hopes

Frankfurt, Nov. 30.
 Dr. Earl Diem, the Organising Secretary of the last Olympic Games in Berlin, said, after the close of the German sports conference here—

"I am not only thinking of German sportsmen taking part in the Olympic Games in London in 1948. I am counting firmly on the fact that a small German team will be present. Until then, there are many difficulties to overcome, in particular the exit permits and the procurement of foreign currency, but I think that with the help of foreign friends and patrons of German sport, we shall be able to overcome them."

The International Olympic Committee which, during the war, sent all minutes of its sessions to me via the Red Cross, and still sends them to me, will shortly be reconstituted and I believe our sportsmen will then be admitted to the London Games."

Dr. Diem thought that Germany would be able to send a light athletics team, and perhaps some hammer and javelin throwers, but he was unable to make the possible German representative.—Reuter.

No Disgrace When Saints Lose

Dogged by bad luck from the very start in losing the services of R. Rocha in the first minute of the game and then having to concede a penalty which was converted, St. Joseph's played their best game of the season when they fully extended a strong South China side at Causeway Bay yesterday in the First Division of the Football League and eventually lost by two clear goals.

The handicap of playing one man short from so early a stage in the game was indeed great, but the Saints played a hard and determined game and gave the South China supporters many anxious moments. It was only in the closing stages when St. Joseph's threw everything into the attack to at least force a draw—and they were near scoring on two occasions—that South China were able to score again.

South China had their best side out while St. Joseph's brought in Santos on the left wing in place of Castillo, but he was not an improvement.

Three players were outstanding in the Saints team and they were: MacDougall in goal, Airoso the pivot and Leung their wing half. MacDougall brought off one save after another and some of them were wonderful. Airoso was never beaten for possession and his tackling was sound. His distribution play was also good and as a third back he had the Chinese forwards well held.

Lo and Ma played much better than they did last week. Hussain, except for the costly lapse of giving away a penalty, also put in some extremely useful work and generally had Lee Shek-yau well covered and this winger was practically a passer throughout the game.

Chan Tak-fai and Chau Man-chi, the most deadly forwards of the Chinese attack, did not have much chance to shine. The Saints defenders did not give them an opportunity to settle down and always tackled hard.

With a forward line which was disjointed, the Saints' attack lost much of its sting. Gosano distributed well and sent Xavier and Santos away with good passes, but only the former was able to make any use of them. Carvalho had the constant attention of Leung Wing-chiu, but he was always a source of danger.

In the first attacking movement in the first minute of the game, Rocha wrenched his knee and had to retire. Neither goal was seriously tested and ten minutes from the start Hussain handled in the penalty area. From the spot kick South China took the lead.

Undaunted by this setback, St. Joseph's were again on the attack and a nice combined movement between Carvalho and Xavier's parting effort just failed.

In the second half South China did slightly more of the attacking, but the Saints' defence was in great form. Hussain, Airoso and Leung broke up many a dangerous movement while in goal MacDougall dealt with shots from all directions.

South China scored their second goal through Airoso after Chau Wing-keung had lobbed the ball over MacDougall's head.

Hard knocks were given and taken by both sides, but the game was played in a very sporting spirit.

St. Joseph's—MacDougall; Lo and Ma; Hussain, Airoso and Leung. Xavier, B. Gosano, Carvalho, Rocha and Santos. South China—Wong Wah-kai, Tang Chung-wan and Yuen Shue; Tse Kam-hing, Leung Wing-chui and Lo Wai-keun; Tse Kam-po, Chau Man-chi, Chan Tak-fai, Chau Wing-keung and Lee Shek-yau.

1/5 Cdo. v Eastern

An exciting game was witnessed when the Club drew with Eastern 1/5 Commando drew with Eastern in their First Division.

The late arrival of Chan Ming-fai, right back caused Eastern to play with only 10 players for about 15 minutes. Though trying very hard, the soldiers were unable to utilize this opportunity to register any score.

Outstanding were the two goalkeepers. They were severely tested, but played excellently to clear numerous dangerous shots.

The game was evenly contested throughout. Neither side was able to score, both missing many an opportunity. The soldiers were short of luck. Ford, tending in several beautiful shots, the majority of which hit the cross-bar. Play became most exciting towards the end when both sides tried hard to score without success. At one stage, play touched the rough side, one of the Com-

3 Cdo. Bde v S. China

South China Juniors received a rude shock at Causeway Bay yesterday when they were beaten by 3 Cdo. Bde H.Q. by four goals to two in the Second Division.

Commando started off with a burst and within a few minutes were two goals in the lead. At the interval they were leading by three clear goals.

After the interval South China played better and scored two goals in succession, but Commandos again scored before the end.

Goal scorers for Commando were Smithie, McElhine, MacKay (Penalty) and Dyal. Lee and Suen scored for South China.

H.Q. Land Forces v 44 Cdo.

H.Q. Land Forces defeated 44 R.M. Commando by the odd goal in three after leading 1-0 at half-time in the Second Division.

Lambell opened the scoring for the winners, Johnson scoring for Commandos shortly after the interval. Lambell scored the winning goal.

The first try was scored by the Commandos when Stanley, right wing, after beating several players, forced his way over the line. The try was converted. Shortly afterwards Reid, the R.A.F. right wing, picked up the ball and kicking over the full back's head, he got the bounce that his opponent deserved and scored. He was the best for Wright-Nooth (a convert).

The second half started with both sides playing hard and there was not much to choose between them. England, Tlehurst and Stanley were always to be noticed, while Wright-Nooth and Oliver were the best for the R.A.F. Police.

About a quarter of an hour from the end the R.A.F. and Police were noticeably tiring and the Commandos were getting the better of them and but for weak passing might have made more of their opportunities. Ten minutes from the end, after a passing movement among the forwards, England got over another try for the Commandos which was not converted.

ASSAULTED BY CROWD

When H.J. Weeks—whose address is given as "China Fleet Club"—tried to grab hold of a man whom he suspected of stealing $10 from his pocket, he was set upon by a crowd carrying bamboo poles and forced to let him go, he reported to the police yesterday. He was riding in a tricycle in Johnstone Road at about 4.30 p.m. with a female friend when they were stopped by touting street photographers; the crowd pressed near and his pocket was picked.

Low Scores In Rugby Games

Low scoring featured the two Rugby games played at the Happy Valley yesterday when 3 Commando Brigade beat R.A.F. and Police by eight points to five, and Club defeated Navy by eight points to three.

In the second game (Club v. Navy) both sides appeared well matched and although Club were getting the ball back nearly every time, there was no score until just before half time when an all-side infringement awarded Club with a good penalty goal from Ingham.

Both packs were lively but while Navy seldom allowed the ball past the outside half Club were usually tackled in possession but not before at least one centre had touched the ball. One run of Navy's by Porter looked dangerous but he was well tackled by Ingham ten yards from the line.

The changeover gave Navy the advantage of the wind and this took them down onto the Club twenty-five but not for long; Cressford gained the ball and linked through to the Navy twenty-five before being brought down. The Navy three-quarters were still not scoring enough of the ball and the stand off was too prone to kicking or running back into the scrum to give them a chance.

From a scrum Graham picked up and running strongly touched down just outside the posts. This was turned into five points by Ingham.

Navy now revived and for the rest of the match looked the better side; twice Garside, scrum half, dodged and feinted through several Club defenders and on the first occasion found Porter up with him. He ran hard before being brought down by Ingham; the ball came back to Becker to him; he dribbled ahead and touched down to secure the Navy's only points. Before the whistle, Wynard received the ball from Becker and was within five yards of scoring when Ingham threw himself at him to crash him down.

Commandos v R.A.F./Police

In game between the Commandos and R.A.F. and Police. The first half was very even with the Commandos playing against the wind.

The first try was scored by the Commandos when Stanley, right wing, after beating several players, forced his way over the line. The try was converted. Shortly afterwards Reid, the R.A.F. right wing, picked up the ball and kicking over the full back's head, he got the bounce that his opponent deserved and scored. KCC Needed Eight Runs To Win

With two wickets to fall, Kowloon Cricket Club wanted eight runs for victory at the close of play yesterday when the Club entertained the Army at Cox's Path. Fortunes fluctuated throughout and another two overs would have proved most interesting; as it was, spectators had "their money's worth" for a draw was a fitting result to a keen game.

Bad fielding cost Kowloon dearly when the Army began their innings and eight runs were on the board before the second wicket fell. Geldard once again played a grand innings despite three "lives" and seemed well set for his fifty when clean bowled by a good length ball from Burch.

With their tea time score at 115-7, the Service side declared their innings closed and gave the Club just under two hours to get the necessary runs. Most successful of the home attack was Zimmerman who conceded only 27 runs in his sixteen overs in which he claimed four wickets.

Replying, Kowloon began confidently but an inspired over by Ozorio coupled by safe fielding in the slips by Rowley turned the tables completely and the civilians found themselves with their backs to the wall, defending stolidly. Broadbridge discovered a reliable partner in Fincher and, for a time, the latter overshadowed the opening batsman with some splendid off drives. The score was 72 when Fincher was dismissed and the Club passed the hundred mark ahead of the clock. Baxter and Broadbridge were sent back to the pavilion at the critical time and the game concluded in a draw. Broadbridge, in a calm and unruffled innings, included seven boundaries in his 59.
